Eric,
this year has been really great thanks to people like you. Behave yourself and call me-946-5852. Many life always treat you very special because you'll always be very special to me.
Love,
Carol.

Buy Eric,
I had a good time
listening to you in American Propaganda & it shows at least some of us think a little. I hope we get together this summer & have a good time.

Eric,
American History has really been interesting with you in it. You kept the class alive. Have a real nice summer
and stay out of trouble
Love Mary Buckner

Eric, I've been nice knowing you. I hope you have a good summer. Take it easy and party
away. Love,

To Eric,
Thanks for being such a great person. We're really enjoyed being with you (ha ha) see O.K. you didn't come and me in the Hop Hospital,
just don't let it happen again.
Love
Kathy

Eric Well Another year gone see you next Stay Happy High

The CAMELBACK staff wishes to express its appreciation to Mike Jarko and J. R. Pray for taking their time and effort to take the color pictures seen in the opening section.

So, we'll go no more a-roving
So late into the night,
Though the heart be still as Loving
And the moon be still as Bright.

We begin as embryos,
Then are thrust into the world
To pass through the many phases
Life has waiting for us.
We must strive to adjust.

Eric, I really enjoyed meeting you this year. Hope to see you all next year. Love, Ann P.S. Sure did have fun you
one night. Ha Ha.

New experiences fill our lives.
Everchanging, they follow one upon the other.
As each stage passes
Another takes its place.
Each brings hopes, then joy or disappointment.

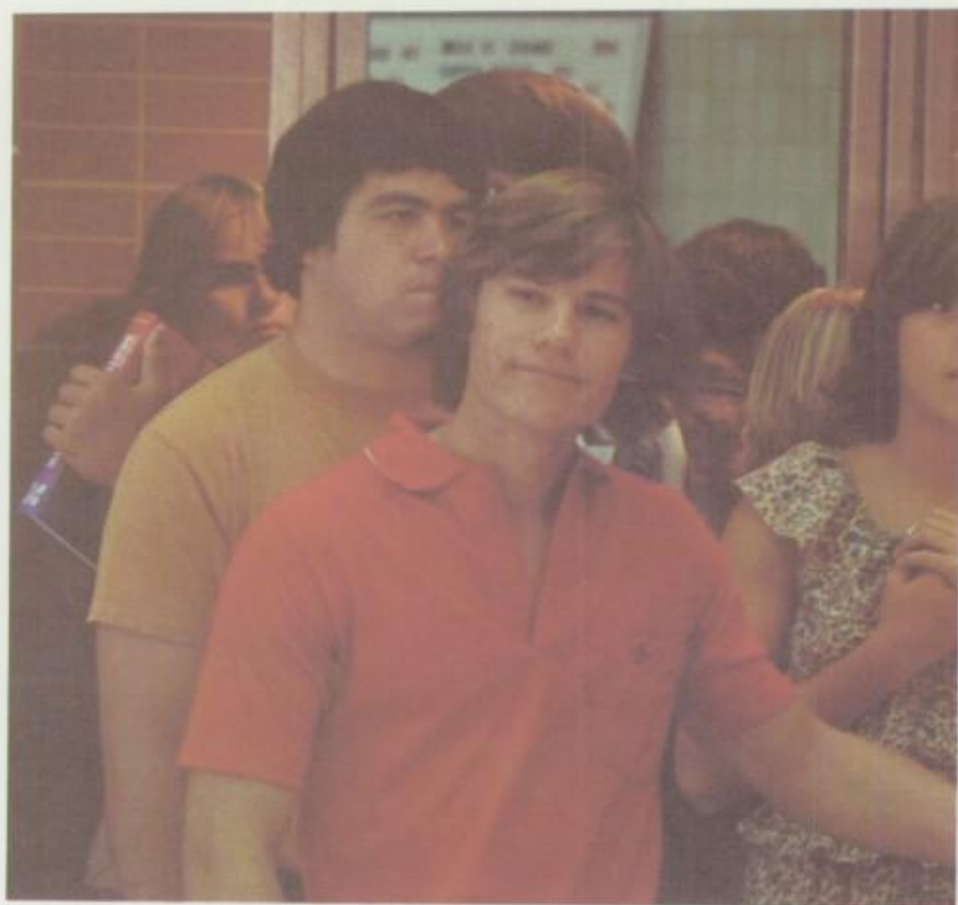

Eric,
It was great knowing you this year, you should have some more great bonackers! Have lots of fun this summer.
I hope you're in some of my classes next year
so we can talk more!
Keep in touch,
Love,
Jenny

Through the phases and stages of our lives,
Society stretches and tugs at us,
Making us fit in.
Fads and fashions wax and wane;
We struggle to keep up.

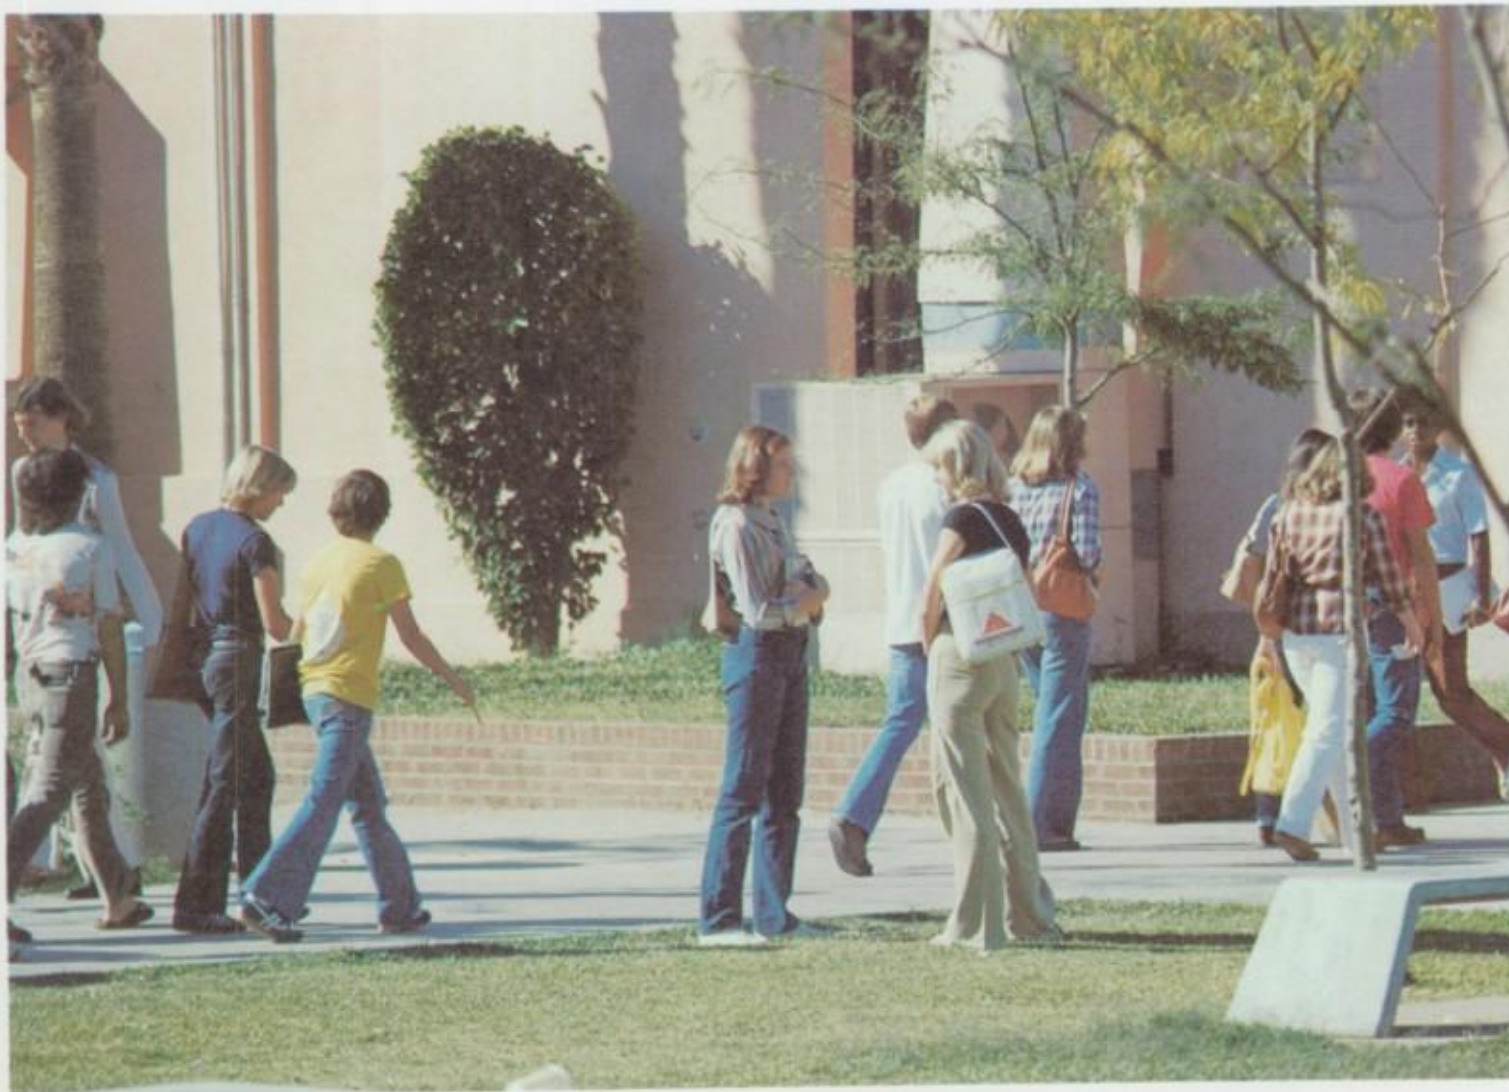

Only one of many stages: high school-

We will eventually experience

Years as freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors.

Our education goes beyond the books

Through times of learning and enjoyment.

A slice of high school life
Containable in one year
Commences with new friends,
Through worrisome grades as the quarters pass;
Then summer, a short reprieve awarded to all.

We awaken to another day.
 We rush to beat the bell,
 Prepared or unprepared for the string of classes.
 And at the conclusion, time for
 The evening's activities to bring the day to a close.

The Class of '78 left Scottsdale High after four memorable years. Many good times were shared with old friends. It was sad to leave behind friends and the security of being an upperclassman, yet exciting to begin a new phase in life.

It was an eventful year for the seniors. There were college entrance exams, interviews with counselors, the decision of which college to attend, involvement in school activities and just plain class participation and studying.

Where to, from here graduates? The future holds many opportunities. Best of luck to the Class of '78.

The Seniors set a great example for the underclassmen with their strong school spirit. Assemblies wouldn't have been the same without the total participation of loyal seniors. They realized it was their last football season and even with the enthusiasm of a winning season there was a sense of sorrow knowing it was coming to an end.

For three years they saw the crowning of Homecoming King and Queen. Each year the event became more meaningful and the nominees names were more familiar. Until it was the final year. It was their chance now, their friends being crowned. The ceremony was held and it was a time of rejoicing for some, yet sorrow for others. For all it was a time to be remembered.

The seniors had fun during their last year at SHS and when they thought of graduation a sad feeling entered them. They think of all the good times they've had. Their senior year was the best because they were respected by the underclassmen. When they left, they found themselves and their goals, always remembering the times they learned, laughed and cried as the Class of '78.

They brought with them to SHS new ideas and lots of enthusiasm. They put their ideas to work and they accomplished much. Class of '78 worked together to better the school.

The class of '79 began their first year as upperclassmen with enthusiasm. Selling cokes at football games was only the beginning of activities they held to raise money for the spring prom. They also sponsored the first dance, which was a tremendous success. Future plans included car washes and candy sales. The Junior Class worked well together in putting on a prom that none would soon forget.

As a junior at SHS, there are many joyful experiences that will be remembered for years. In fact, it was an active and scholastic challenge because the prerogative of the upper classman was to prepare for the future. As the year progressed, the realization of the upcoming completion of high school grew nearer. Therefore, involvement in activities was a goal for the junior class.

Homecoming week was a very special event for juniors this year. They participated in the tricycle race, the spoon race and the banana eating contest. They also put the finishing touches on their float, "Peanuts, Superstars." The juniors worked hard on their float, and their work paid off, as they won first place.

Sophomores Class of 80

1. Kathy Norris, Lisa Maxey and friends enjoy their lunch hour out in the sunshine. • 2. Hustling to class are Shawn Halpin and Mark Dewane. • 3. Todd Tombs waits for the morning bell to ring. • 4. Classes can be exasperating as Jan Johnson finds out. • 5. Providing leadership for the Sophomore Class are the officers: President Paul Marusich, Vice-President Calee Palmer, Secretary Gretchen Gossen, Representatives Tacy Bruns and Tim Spain. • 6. Doug Paulson eagerly attempts to help his class win a banana eating contest.

Activities breed sophomore spirit

Sophomore spirit ran high as activities were promoted by the class officers. A judo competition, as well as car washes and other fund raising projects added quite a bit of money to the class treasury. Banana eating contests, tricycle races and other class competitions were vigorously entered-and sometimes won-by the enthusiastic sophomores.

Beginning the 1977-78 school year at SHS the freshmen spent most of their time adapting to the new surroundings. Much of their first few weeks at SHS were spent searching for classrooms and meeting new people. As the year progressed the freshmen began constructing a float. These activities, along with acceptance into other activities, helped ease the move from eighth grade. The combination of sports, clubs and other after-school activities added spunk to the class of 1981.

The SHS Beavers opened its 77-78 season with tough city rivals Saguaro at Sabercat field. SHS blasted the cats 17-0. Joey Lumpkin led the way with all 17 points and 35 yards rushing. Clip Palmer led the offense with 182 yards and was 10 for 13 in the air. Bringing down most of his passes were Kurt Whiteman and Todd Mumma. The Beavers' next victims were the Firebirds of Chaparral. SHS had the game in their hands with Lumpkins 86 yards to romp the Birds 24-0. The Beavers total offense was 260 yards to Chaparrals 66. The defense was led by Eric Johnson with 7 unassisted tackles. He was aided by Bruce Sears. With two wins behind their backs, SHS went for three with a 30-0 white-washing of Arcadia. With great defensive efforts by Eric Johnson and Al Baker, the team was balanced-off with Lumpkin and Tim McGuffie on offense. The first three wins led SHS to its first city championship in 13 years.

The Chandler Wolves came into Beaver Stadium looking for a win over SHS, but left with a 31-7 surprise. Chandler was the first team to score against the Beavers in the season. Joey Lumpkin and Tim McGuffie led the rushing attack for SHS. Mark Davis, Don Langley and Eric Johnson earned the praise for the blocking. With a 4-0 record, SHS experienced their first loss against McClintock, 10-0. Scottsdale's defense played almost the whole game. SHS was held to 49 total yards. Trying to keep their spirits up, SHS took on Westwood but memories from the previous week crept up from behind the Beavers, and they lost 24-7. SHS couldn't get anything going throughout the whole game, but Westwood did. McGuffie scored SHS's only touchdown. After two straight losses, SHS bounced back to blank last years state champions, Coronado, 21-0. SHS made a total of 203 yards against the Dons.

Beavers jump on winning track

1. Two Scottsdale defenders cuddle up with some Chandler player during an SHS home game. • 2. Defensive back Todd Mumma throws off a block as he tries to make a tackle on a Kofa runner. • 3. Mike Stark collides with an offensive opponents. • 4. Quarterback Clip Palmer looks around him after being knocked down. • 5. Craig Roos tackles an opponent as Bruce Sears comes to the rescue.

Making their way through the end of the 77-78 football season, SHS took on the Kings of Kofa, dethroning them, 14-0. Joey Lumpkin scored all of the Beavers' touchdowns with 180 yards on 21 carries. Mike Nauman and Eric Johnson lead the defense while offense was backed up with aid of Tim Taber, Ryan Hodgeman and Kevin Roos. After overthrowing Kofa, SHS bused down to Yuma to arrest the Criminals, 42-6. Clip Palmer passed to Keith Wilson for two touchdowns and to Jeff Hermanson for another. Lumpkin rushed for 122 yards on 10 carries and Tim McGuffie added 95 yards on 19 tries. SHS rolled up a total of 465 yards. On Homecoming night SHS blasted the Padres of Marcos de Niza, 61-8. The nine-touchdown performance capped an 8-2 record for the Beavers and brought their total points up to 256 versus their opponents 55. Lumpkin scored a sum of 114 points to top all city scorers. Palmer passed for 180 yards with Wilson and Kurt Whiteman making the scores. Brendon Feil blocked a punt and recovered the ball in the end zone for SHS's third score. Scottsdale finished the season with it's best record in 13 years.

JV's Frosh, Pee Wees all grab winning seasons

The JV, Freshman and Pee Wee teams all had winning seasons in the 77-78 year. To led the JV's were QB Gary Cooper, running-back Troy Orr and Ian Greene. Leading the defense was Frank Stout and Adam McMillan.

On the younger end of the scale, the Freshman "A" team went undefeated with an 8-0-1 record. Leaders of the future varsity hopefuls were Randy Hayes, a runningback, Jeff Jarko and Dan Larkin. The defense were aided by Scott Hodgeman and Mike Seay.

The Pee Wee team, which is smaller than the freshman "A", was led by the running of Kevin McKlain and Randy Hicks, and alot of assistance from Rubin Serna, Matt Christ, and Steve Hopkins.

The Varsity Volleyball Team ended with the best season ever, 11-1. Their first five games were easy defeats over Casa Grande, Chaparral, Tempe, Saguaro, and their arch rival Arcadia. Westwood gave Scottsdale a tough fight, coming out on top 2-1. SHS then took McClintock, Chandler and Mountain View with no visible amount of trouble. Coronado gave SHS a hard time, but even they fell. Finally, Scottsdale defeated their last two opponents: Kofa and Marcos De Niza. Through this the girls earned the title of City Champs by virtually defeating every city team. The team added to this record by winning the Arcadia Invitational. Every year eight of the valley's top teams are invited to compete in this day long competition. This was the first year Scottsdale won.

1. Regrouping to form a strategy or just pulling together during the game is nothing new to any winning team. • 2. The JV Volleyball Team spends hours practicing. Kathy King displays the results with a perfect set. • 3. All types of movements are used in volleyball. Meg Connors demonstrates the bump. • 4. It's not always knowing what to do, but making sure where the ball is. Meg Connors shows her knowledge as she reaches out for the ball. • 5. Third Row: Laura Kaufmann, Lisa Cody.

The JV Volleyball team strived to gain experience, skill and talent. The team practiced for hours, putting in as much time as the varsity. The J.V.'s started out with a bang shooting down Casa Grande, Chaparral, Tempe and Saguaro. They then fought in vain losing to Arcadia and Westwood. Regaining their composure, they cremated McClintock, barely lost to Chandler, mauled Mountain View, and just gave Coronado enough room to squeeze by. Kofa pulled off a victory over Scottsdale, but they came back to win the last game, slaughtering Marcos.

First year coach Bob McKee led the SHS cross country team to a 3-6 J.V. record while varsity went 2-8. The cross country team will be losing outstanding runner Dan Raby. But returning other outstanding runners Steve Miller and Ray Wheller both juniors. A outstanding sophomore runner was Mark Marshall. The team also had two girls on the squard for the first time ever. Losing only one senior, the team looks promising for next year.

The SHS Wrestlers got off to a slow start, winning only one out of the first four matches. Joey Lumpkin had little trouble with his opponents pinning all but two. Other returning matmen were Tim Taber, Tim Warren, Randy Dunkelbarger and Karl Kaspzyk.

With the new coach, Greg Kirkham the matmen tried their hardest, practicing everyday after school and even on weekends. They toiled hard to keep up with tradition and win the fourth city title. They didn't make it, but they tried by putting mind, body and soul to the task.

The 1977-78 Beaver Basketball Team began the season showing much potential. Leading the way for the young team was Junior Dave Shultz, top scorer. He was recipient of the Scottsdale Progress Player of the Week Award for hitting 72.5 percent of his field goals while chalking up 57 points in one week. Bob Kulovitz, another junior spent his first season with the Beavers and proved to be an essential for the team. The Beaver squad had a special fast break strategy for the offense that was very effective. They also had a zone defense which worked well too.

JV's score big season

The 1977-78 JV and Freshman Basketball Teams were exciting prospects for future Beaver teams. When game time came around those long hours spent grinding out drills made it all worthwhile. It takes effort not only on the team's part, but on the school to have a winning team, and the student body was always behind them.

The thrills of victory plus the sorrows filled the SHS Girls Tennis Team. Breathtaking final moments made the team a theatrical adventure as well as an important learning experience. Going for lobs and smashes, working to win, and practicing to hit ground strokes were a challenge. Both participants and spectators developed sportmanship, team loyalty, discipline and attitude. Students in the stands and on the court developed rapport that rejoiced in victory and endured through defeat.

Girls dive into season

Three new records were set by the SHS Swim Team. Lisa Nelson broke a long standing diving record along with Allison Rowe performing the 100 meter fly in 1:11.5 minutes. Michelle Irwin, another outstanding teammate swam the 100 meter freestyle in 58 seconds. She also received honorable mention for the city team plus sixth in the state for the 100 meter freestyle.

Practicing long hours the swimmers dove into the season. Not quite a smooth sailing resulted, but the girls gained the satisfaction of giving their best.

The golf team once again started out their season with many surprises. After weeks of recruiting and challenging for a higher standing, the team was assured of their first match against long time rival Saguaro. The practice rounds played a very important part in the performance of each individual during the matches. They also were important in the advancement of his ranking among the team. A match consisted of one round of nine holes played by the top five players. Later in the year, the team was invited to participate in two eighteen hole tournaments. One was against Coronado. The other was the city tournament. The Yuma invitational was a thirty-six hole tournament. It was the most prestigious tournament for SHS.

SHS Track Team puts its best foot forward

The Boys' Track Team commenced the year with a new coach, a new event and a new spirit. With eight returning lettermen, they had a larger turnout than ever before. The competition included events in the shot put, the discus throw, the 100 yd. dash, the 220 yd. dash, the 440 yd. run, the 880 yd. run, the mile, the two-mile, the long jump, the pole vault and the high jump. The javelin throw was also added to the list. The new coach, Jerry Haley believed in running to get in shape, and it paid off because the team was in tip-top condition for its first meet.

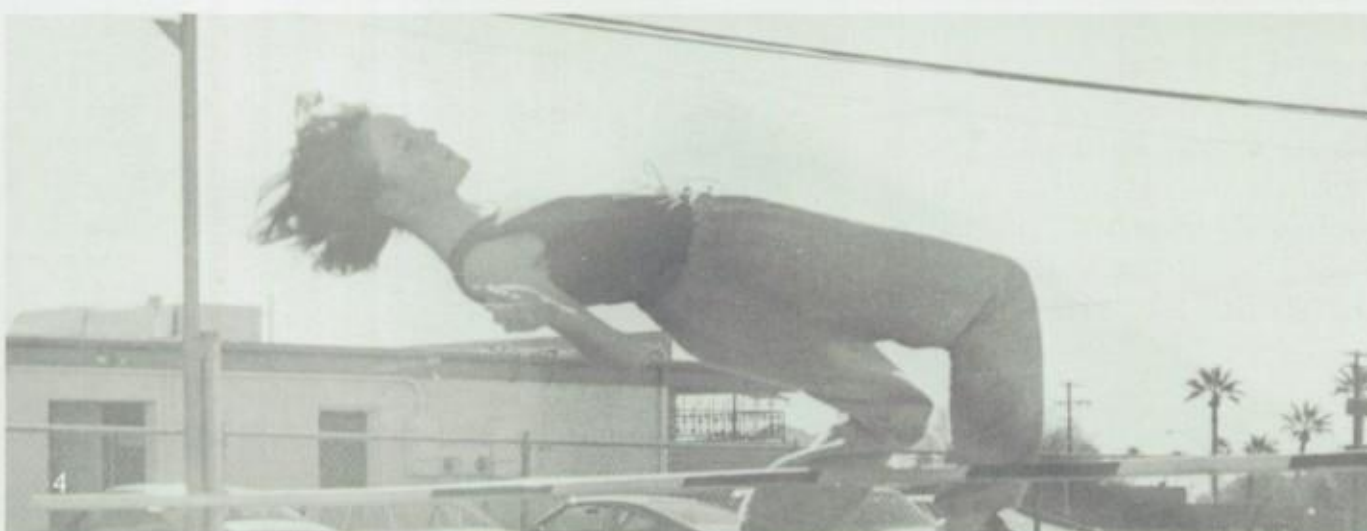

1. Troy Orr long jumps to an amazing 22 feet. • 2. Janine Brinkman shows her style at the high jump. • 2. Top Row: Sue Ashton, Julie Marsh, Mellisa Steinle. Bottom Row: Wendy Swanson, Amy Burris, Cary Smith. • 3. Lynne Kardos just takes her time. • 4. Kevin Lewis leaps over the hurdles while practicing for the state meet.

SHS Girls Track Team started out to a good season with lots of enthusiasm and high hopes. Girls Track went into their second year with many returning letterpersons. They tried something different this year with a JV Team giving underclassmen a chance to gain experience

Top Row: Sandy Pollock, Vanja Swanson, Susie Ricardo, Roxanne Stragier. Bottom Row: Leigh Fox, Lisa Graves, Allison Rowe. • 2. Heidi Woodbury strives to catch up with the team. • 3. Girls softball again started out the new softball season with smashing success. After their exuberant 21-3 victory over Mesa, the team was indestructible. Bettering their last year's record by far, the team was always making improvements on their speedy and precise base running. Their accuracy in placing hard hit balls was astounding. The team held very high hopes of achieving divisionals and the state title.

They share the toils of teaching

Principal Evelyn Caskey represented the spirit of SHS with her bright smile and unbounded enthusiasm. She dealt equally with district officials, teachers, parents and students, showing great interest in all that was said. Assistant principals John Durbin and Leslie Hurst attended to disciplinary, administrative and scheduling matters. Hurst was new to SHS, but soon was caught up in the school spirit. A familiar sight was an anxious student pleading his case in Hurst's office, while a familiar sound was Hurst's congratulatory remarks in the daily announcements.

Counselors lend a helping hand

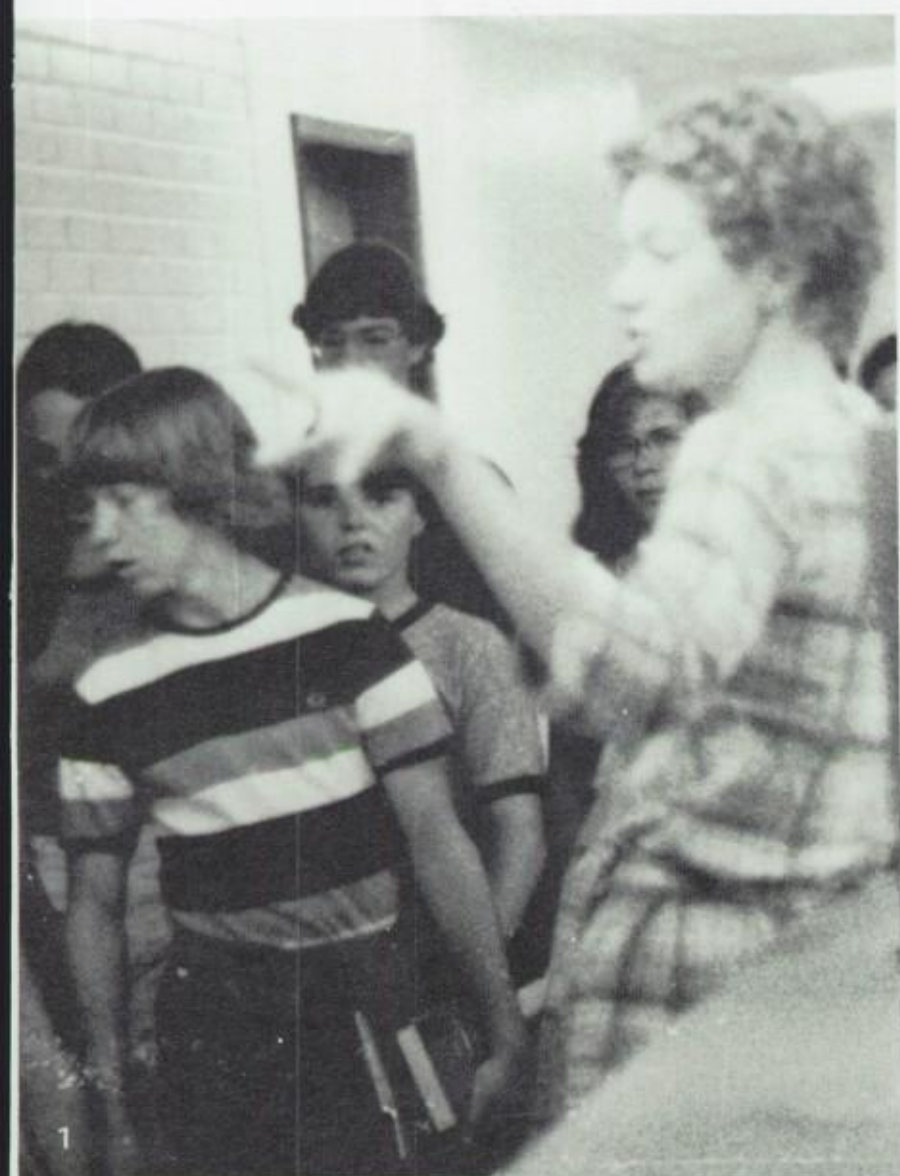

The Guidance Department consisted of a dedicated group of men and women who understood the importance of person to person contact in the busy high school years. The counselors helped guide students in making decisions about the present and future. The Career Center was designed to inform and illustrate the many job possibilities available for students' futures.

The Business classes were designed to prepare students in meeting the challenges of a rapidly moving world. The Accounting courses incorporated machine data processing in working with double-entry bookkeeping. Business Law was an exploratory class dealing with legal principles affecting both the consumer and businessperson. Math plus business equaled Business Machines. Using calculators, students practiced initial business concepts. For those interested in trying out career possibilities while still in school, Cooperative Office Education provided salaried employment throughout the community. Acquainting students with basic business knowledge and skills was the purpose of Introduction to Business. Job Preparation was designed to give students an understanding of the economy. No longer were Shorthand and Typing considered to be only presecretarial courses. They took on a more personal value when their usefulness was discovered for notes and compositions.

English offers basics plus electives

Many electives, as well as the basics, were offered by the English Department. Three years of basic English was the requirement for graduation. Dividing each level into subgroups allowed students to be placed into classes which suited their abilities the best. A vast array of electives offered students a chance to pursue their own interests. Children's Literature, Paperback Literature and Bible Literature encouraged students' interests in specific areas. Those with limited ability in language were helped in Strategies and Skills. College Composition was an introduction to the rigors of college material. In Yearbook, students produced the CAMELBACK. Students in Mythology examined its impact on life, literature and language. Mass Media studied communication in newspapers, radio and television. Students practiced the art of public speaking in Speech. Directed Reading and Developmental Reading allowed great scope in reading material.

The Fine Arts Department offered an outlet for students' creativity and awareness. In Art, students worked in the fields of print making, sculpting, drawing and painting. In the more advanced Art Classes, students were encouraged to prepare a portfolio of their work. The basic principles of three dimensional design were presented in Crafts. Students became experienced in areas including jewelry, wood-carving and textiles. Musicians could chose from Guitar, Jazz Ensemble, JV Band and Varsity Band. Students with an interest in singing and performing were offered Prep Chorus, Chansonettes and Singers. Drama provided an outlet for those interested in acting and also in studying the theater as a form of communication. Topics covered in Dance included the history of stage dance, body mechanics and choreography. A springtime dance concert gave the students an opportunity to share their dances with others. The students in Stagecraft put the skills they learned in class to use in preparing for concerts and school productions.

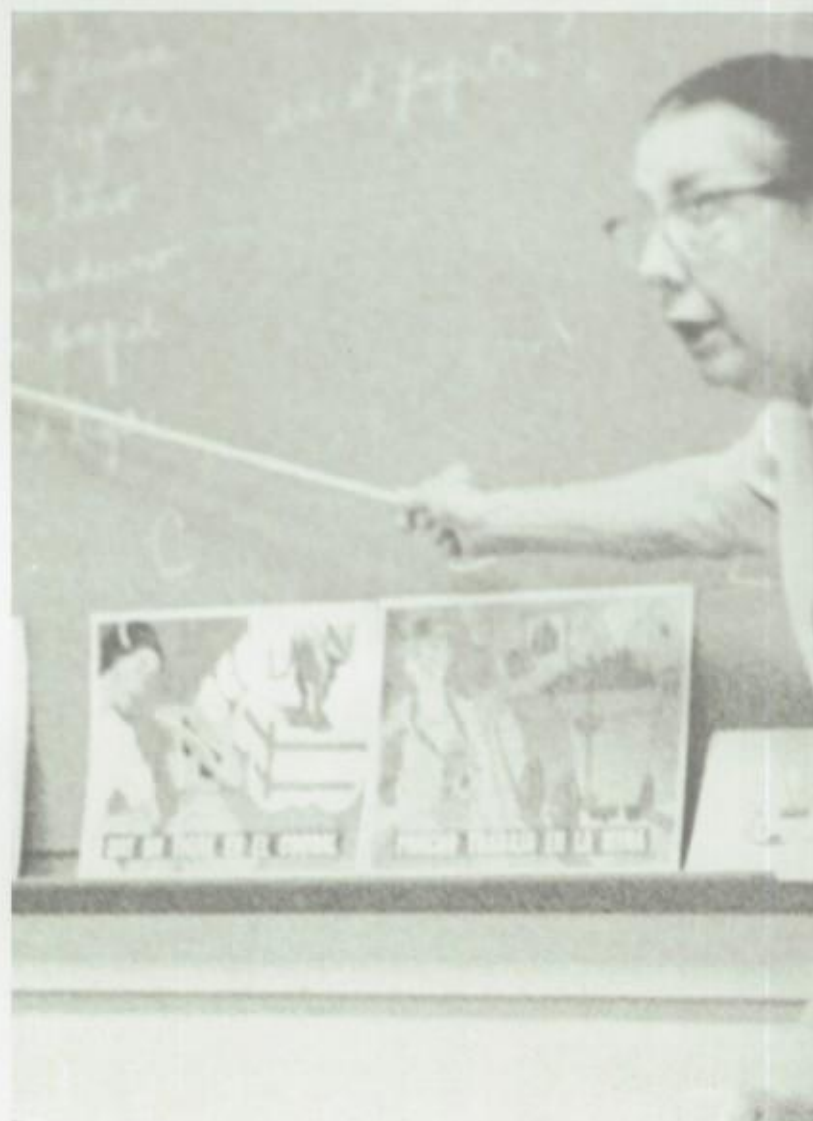

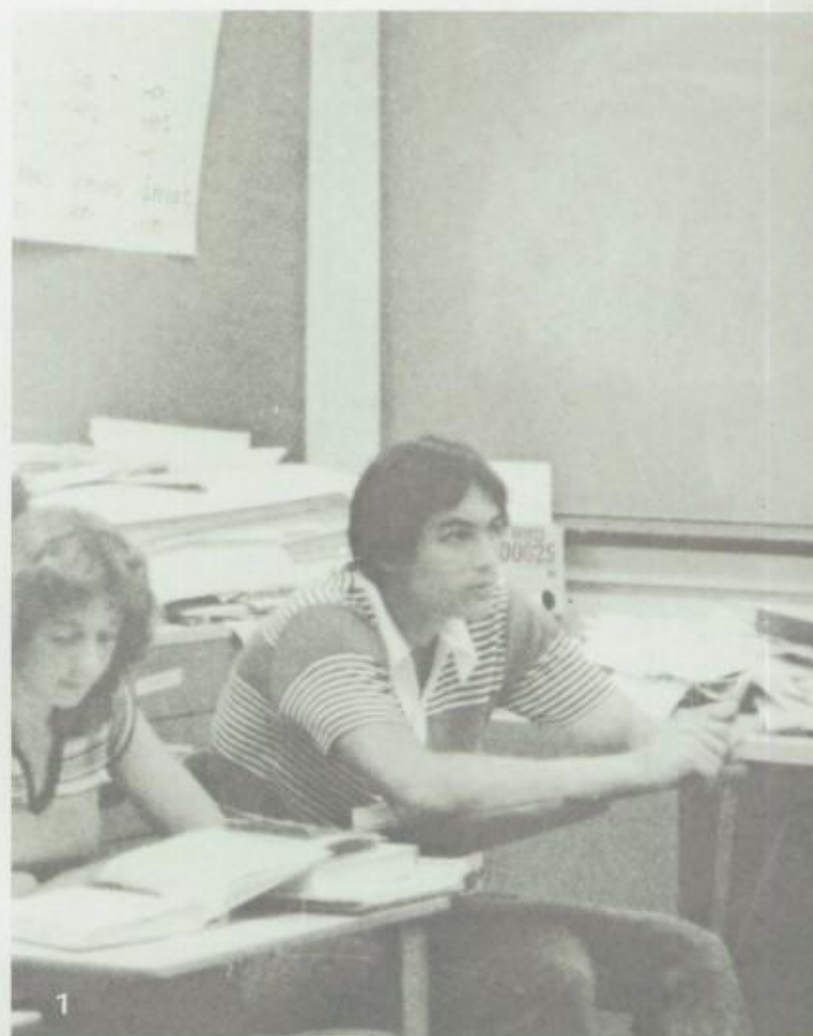

1. Doing improvisations in Dance are Tory Rotundo and Caron Bailey. • 2. Kristi Simon goes over directions with Norma Barer during a rehearsal for a dance concert. • 3. Floyd Woodard conducts his beginning guitar class.

Each year, many of SHS's students take the opportunity to enroll in a foreign language. First and second year students, choosing from French, German and Spanish, were taught the basic skills, including grammar, pronunciation and conversational use. Advanced students examined the languages more intensely by studying classical and contemporary works. The cultural aspects of the countries were brought to life by movies, cooking demonstrations, guest speakers and even luncheons at local gourmet restaurants. In understanding the various cultures, the languages took on new meaning in relation to how the students could apply them to the world around them.

The Home Economics Department featured a variety of subjects that ranged from the traditional cooking courses to dealing with marital crises. Foods helped students to prepare meals that were creatively planned and nutritionally balanced. Students learned the basics of sewing and designing their own wardrobes in Clothing. Handcrafts covered many techniques in producing crafts for pleasure or profit. Pre-school children helped students prepare for effective parenting, as well as child care, in Child Development. Independent Living included experiences useful in becoming self-sufficient. Home Economics Related Opportunities, HERO, was a program for seniors with career interests in that area. Many class speakers, such as hair dressers, modeling consultants and interior decorators discussed various fields of interest to the students. In addition to class activities, students also held a paying job obtained through the class. Human Relations helped students to know themselves better and deal with others. Adjusting to marriage, parenthood and meeting financial obligations were some of the situations dealt with in preparation for the future.

Accuracy, talent and quality developed a sense of personal pride and high degree of skill in the Industrial Arts classes. The Shop classes helped students find a particular area of interest for future study. The four major choices were drafting, metals, power technology and wood-working. In Mechanical Drawing, architectural drafting was studied in detail. Wood-working began by introducing hand and power tools. Eventually the students used them in construction of small buildings. The purpose of Metals was to learn about metal work in an activity oriented class. Power Technology was the study of power, including the maintenance of machines for its conversion into useful forms. For those interested in the repair of cars, Automotive Theory was offered. Home Mechanics was designed to encourage better consumerism of household goods. The Physical Education classes included team and individual activities, exposing the students to various sports. Bowling, golf and tennis were some of the activities covered in Life and Leisure Time Sports. For those interested in body development, Weightlifting was offered. Research, guest speakers and field trips were incorporated in Health. Drivers' Education used simulators and movies to prepare students for license exams and actual driving.

Difficult concepts in Geometry were first approached intuitively in order to make later treatment less formidable and more meaningful. Analysis extended the knowledge gained in Algebra and Geometry to include more advanced theories and applications. For those students who exhibited great ability and interest in math, Calculus was offered. Computational Skills, Consumer Math and Computer Programming provided students the opportunity of studying diversified math subjects in which they were interested.

New laboratory equipment was a big plus for the Science department. Classes such as Chemistry greatly benefitted from the new scientific labs available. The major aim of this class was to discover widely applicable scientific principles and to aid students in developing logical and analytical thinking. Introduction to Physical Science was a lab oriented class that introduced students to many facets of the science world. The review of organics, which lead to an in-depth view of metabolism and genetics, was the main topic of Biochemistry. Human Physiology and Anatomy used highly sophisticated labs to study animal and human genetics. Physics was a laboratory course where students explored light, electromagnetics and nuclear energy. Geology students investigated the earth's age, it's surface features and forces that shaped them. Understanding the environment through the study of stars and galaxies was the basic aim of Astronomy. Aviation Science covered the many subjects necessary for a pilot's license, including navigation, meteorology and computers.

Through various activities students were able to appreciate Social Studies relation to themselves and others. World Geography familiarized students with geographic problems and an understanding of the physical and cultural world. This class and World History served as bases for further social science studies. The aim of American History was to develop an appreciation of the social, cultural and political heritage of our nation. The Government classes were visited by many public officials and politicians. A telephone hook-up with Rep. John Rhodes in Washington, D.C. afforded students an opportunity to directly question an official who contributed to decisions which effect their lives. Increasing the economic literacy needed for responsible citizenship was the aim of Economics/Free Enterprise. Students in the Arizona History classes examined the environment of the state—past and present.

Giving students with potential a chance to prove themselves was the basic aim of the Special Education program. The curriculum was planned around the students' own capabilities and offered instruction in proper attitudes and positive habits. Work experience and Job Preparation provided opportunities to sample vocational possibilities while still in school. Social Economics, Language Arts and Math not only covered the basics, but also showed the students how to apply them in daily life.

Exploration in careers

Programs at the Vo-Tech center were designed to prepare students for future careers. The operating philosophy was geared toward the working world, and was as similar to the employer/employee relationship as possible. In Auto-Body, students learned body and fender repair, and also custom painting. The curriculum in the Automotive Tune-Up and Refridgeration included electrical systems and emission control. The Aviation Maintenance program consisted of basic aerodynamics, flight theory and engine repair. Working with techniques such as silk screening, lithography, and computerized photo typesetting, the Commercial Art students learned by producing. The outline of the Construction course included blocklaying, plumbing and electrical services. In Health Services, the students studied many of the functions of hospitals. The main emphasis in Industrial Cooperative Education was on-the-job training. In the Welding Class students not only gained the skill of welding, but also cultivated the proper attitudes that result in good workpersons.

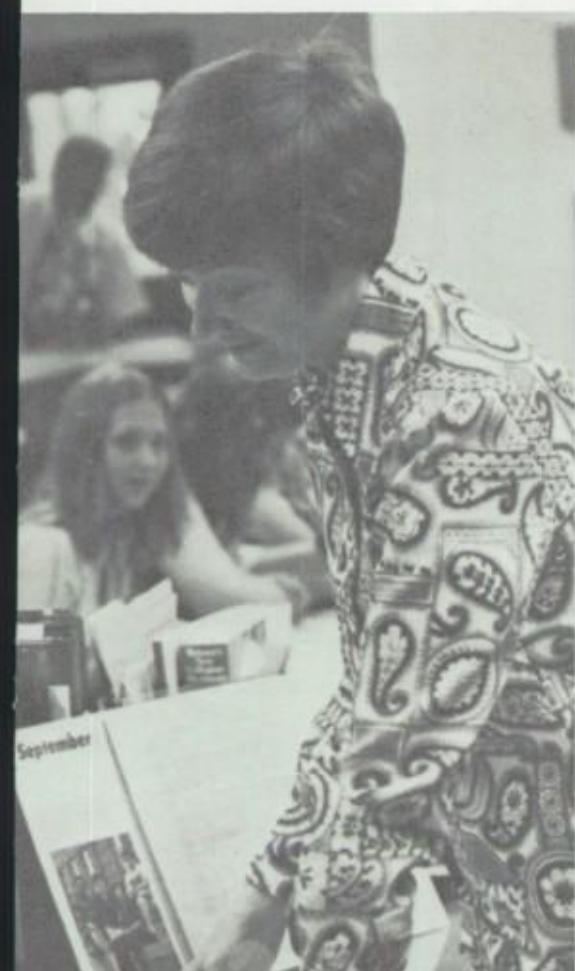

The personnel helped to keep the many facets of SHS run smoothly. The secretaries in the office handled administrative chores, such as attendance, school records and transcripts. The bookstore took care of club and class money in addition to selling school books. The janitors kept the campus clean and in good working order. Feeding many hungry students and teachers was the cafeteria workers' job. The security personnel tried to be helpful in many ways — from directing early morning traffic to opening jammed lockers.

SCHOOL LIFE

New sights mark school opening

SHS began with an all-too-soon bustle. New sights, including administration offices, teachers and Leslie Hurst as the assistant principal filled SHS. Freshmen were made welcome at the annual Freshmen Uncola Party. Class competition soon started rolling. Juniors took first with seniors taking second in the Homecoming float competition. Homecoming week was filled with tricycle races, banana eating contest, a bonfire and a pep assembly. Football, leading the fall sports, had the best season in a long time, ending their season 8-2.

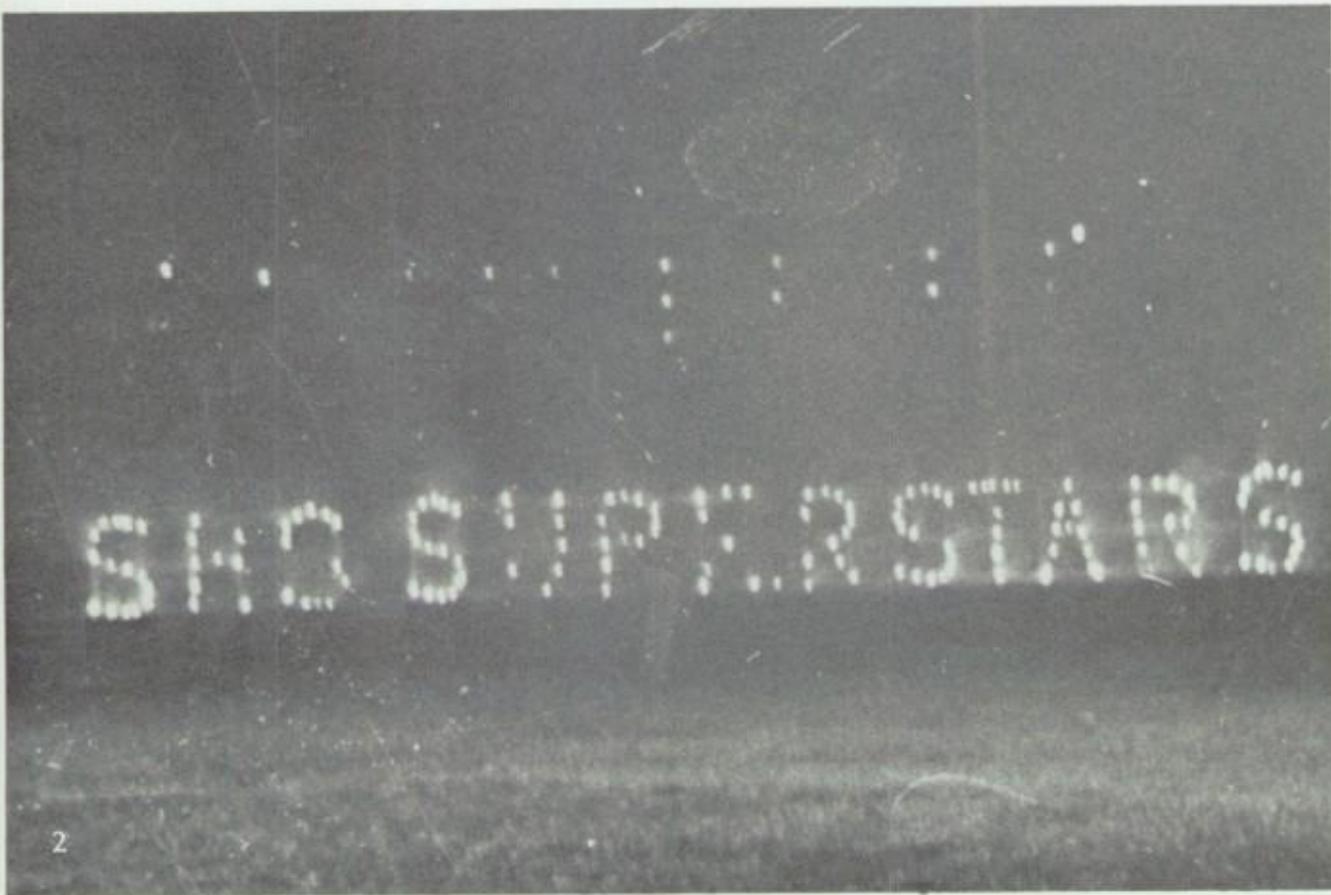

1. John Beard, Nick Hiush and Bruce Terman are the cheerleaders for the powder puff football assembly. • 2. Creighton Donovan helps Sandy Smith discover a new kind of make-up. • To show Student Council's appreciation, Band is presented with a cake for their excellent performances. • 4. Getting in shape for the fall are Steve Sieverson and Joe Mier. • 5. Viki Greer is the victim of the Farmer's Initiation. • 6. Kim Kelley presents Drum Majors Kathy Berkhimer and Mark Schwartz with a cake to show SHS's appreciation for the band's performing at all home football games.

Homecoming broke tradition to crown Lorelie Wooden and Jim Schaller Queen and King for 77-78. A committee selected twelve students on the basis of academic record. Out of the twelve selected students came four attendants who were Jennie Garcia, Leslie Roth, Kevin Lewis, and Gary Saunders. Week long activities included a pep assembly, in which all candidates for homecoming were introduced. An atmosphere of excitement and competition was truly enjoyed by all. The cheer squad did many enthusiastic cheers and the Pom line performed various routines. All classes joined in a little competition by singing the beavers fight song.

SHS' football team livened up to the Homecoming theme "Superstars" triumphing over Marcos De Niza, 61-8. Half-time activities brought floats, tears and happiness. Junior Class accomplished first place in the float competition with seniors receiving second. To top the victorious win, "Ice" played the next night for the Homecoming dance.

Clubs meet with their minds

Many clubs were full of enthusiasm and new ideas at SHS. One of these, the Ecology Club began adding to their treasury by selling pennants and seed sticks, which are popsicle sticks with a tiny seed on the bottom. They ended the year in full bloom by planting flowers and shrubs around school.

Providing an atmosphere of cooperation for students interested in logic, mathematics, astronomy, computer programming and physics, the Computer Science Club was a complete success. The members were charged with the responsibility of keeping up with the ever increasing field of knowledge about computers. They also worked closely with students enrolled in the Computer Programming Class.

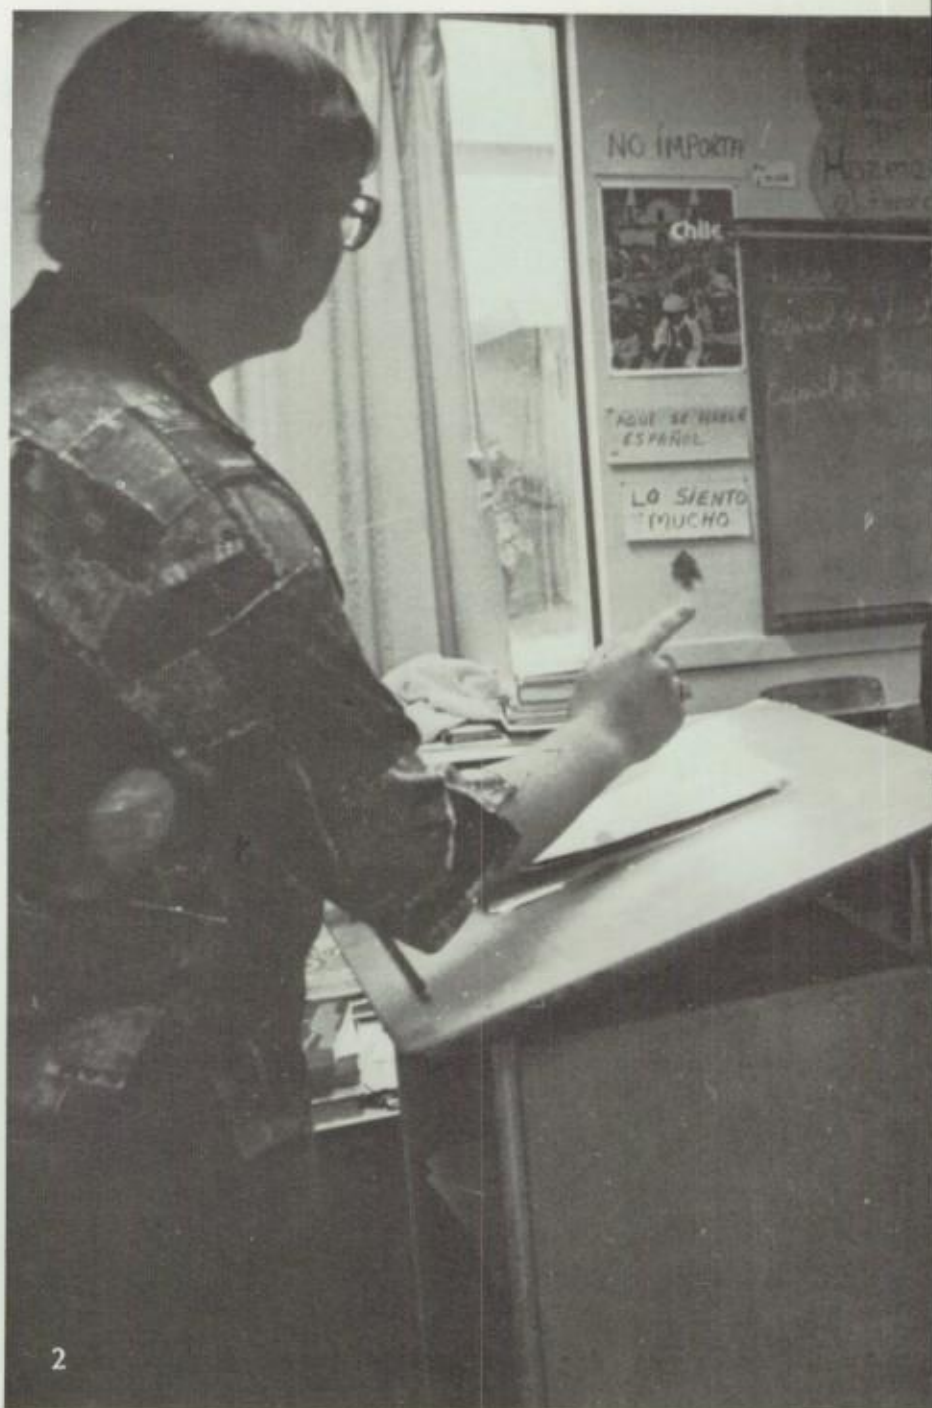

Striving to be best club on campus, the Geology Club planned many interesting outings. They hunted for fossils in Buckeye, then onto San Juan River in Utah for an interesting hike. Members visited ASU and examined ASU students' findings. ASU reciprocated the visit with the help of Dr. Carlton Moore speaking at a meeting.

1. Computer Science Club members assist students with their projects. • 2. Geology club officials are President Tony Ross, Secretary Debbie Way, Treasurer Janet Elsroad, and Representative Sue Carrigan. • 3. President of the Geology Club, Tony Ross discusses with his members the proper way to use the Rock Slicer. • 4. Vice President of the Ecology Club Ann Stewert, Secretary Barbara Pero, Treasurer Cheryl Gudenschwager, and members Holly Martin, Doris Behrmann, Lena Attridge, and Sponsor Charlotte Swett, hold the Ecology Banner proudly.

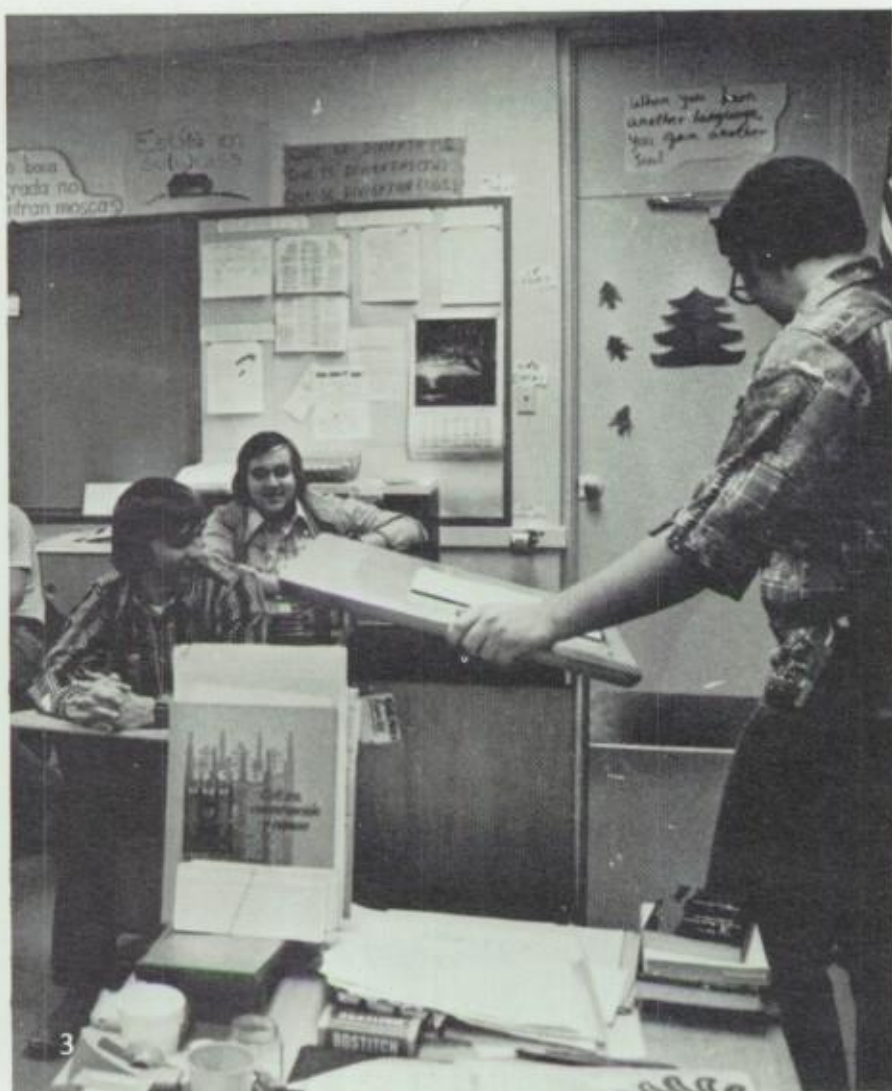

Weekly meetings of the Chess Club became chess clinics in which the members strived to perfect their skills and develop winning tactics. They competed with other on-campus clubs and the chess clubs of other schools.

The French Club explored some of the many aspects of the French culture. Members brought French food to meetings, which added to the already festive air. They also saw French movies and read French comic strips. In the spring they had a flower sale to raise money for their annual crepe party.

Spanish Club had numerous bake sales and other money raising activities that allowed them to sample a wide variety of Mexican foods. They had parties almost every month, as well as a canned food drive and other community service projects.

Cheer spreads the spirit

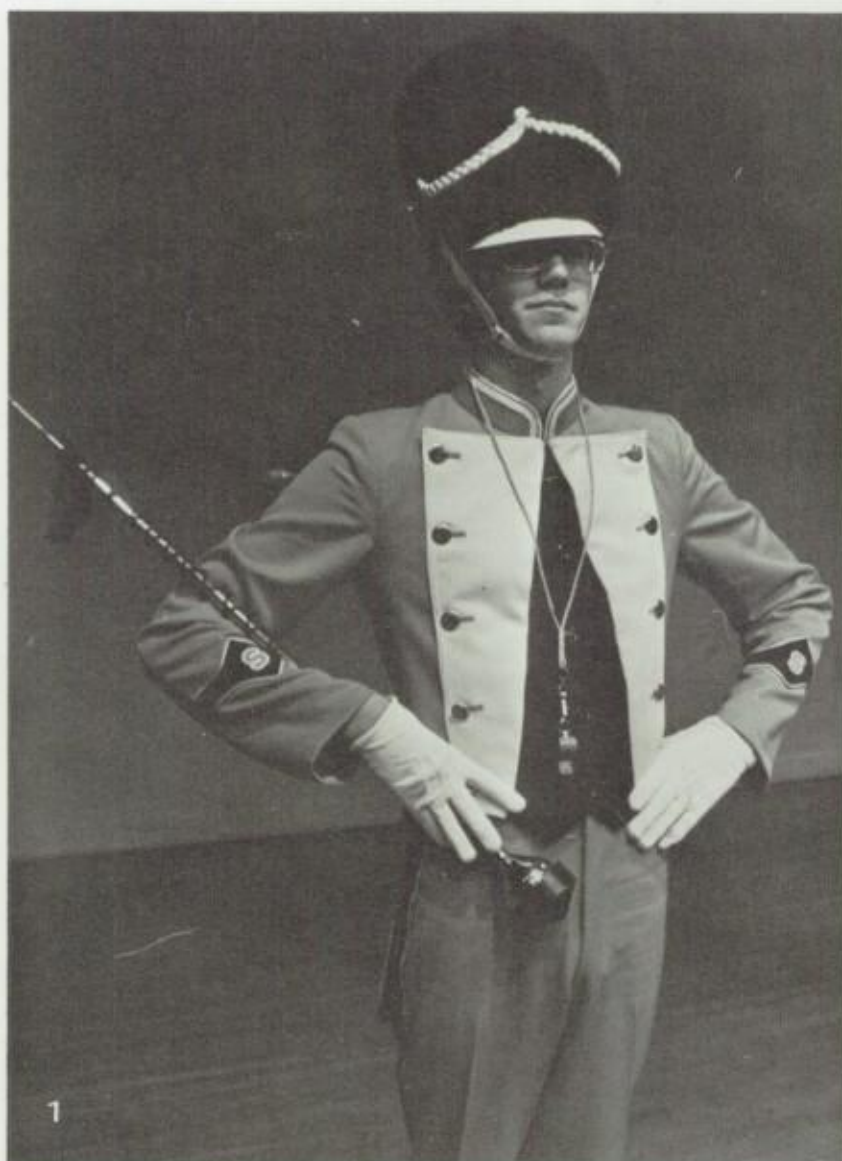

The cheerleaders kept spreading that Beaver spirit through thick and thin. They practiced long hours. They painted slogans to hang up at school to promote spirit. Treats were made for the football and basket players before each game. Attending pep assemblies and sports events, their voices always rang out to pass on their unending spirit.

Color Guard, the SHS drill team, had a membership of ten hard-working girls. Each girl put in long hours each week to put on a successful show at football half times. Lisa McKinney, Color Guard drill sergeant, put in many hours to develop new and imaginative routines. The SHS twirler for 1977-78 was Kathy Colton. Kathy rose early in the morning to be able to work with the band, which practiced before school. Kathy earned a superior rating on ASU Band Day in October. Mark Schwarz and Kathy Berkheimer were the SHS Drum Majors for 1977-78. Mark and Kathy led the band at half times. Kathy and Mark both earned a rating of number one at ASU Band Day also.

With a performance in October, Singers and Balladeers started their concert season. Singers, the varsity mixed chorus at SHS, began the year with forty-seven members, eleven of which were returning varsity letter recipients. Balladeers, the advanced varsity mixed chorus, had twenty-two singers. Singers and Balladeers gave concerts in December and May, as well as the Best of Broadway Concert in March. Members of Singers participated in the annual Regional auditions held in January. They were judged on their technique, style and ability for solos and small ensembles.

Pom steps in style

Pom kept busy during the summer with car washes and working in concession stands at the air show. They made over one hundred dollars selling eggs in their neighborhood. Over the summer they attended camp in La Jolla, California to improve their skills and earned a superior rating for one of their dances. Disneyland and Knott's Berry farm were included in the itinerary as enjoyable side trips. During the school year they practiced before and after school to perform well at pep assemblies and athletic games. Their treasury was used to decorate the school for games, and to hold football and basketball banquets.

Winter is a season of change

Winter is a season of change. Not only does the weather change, but also sports, activities, and the year.

It was time for basketball players, softball players, and wrestlers to display their talents that they had achieved from many long hours of practice. There was a definite change in attitudes with the coming of Christmas. People's spirits were high and the warmth of the season was shared by all. Two weeks of vacation gave everyone a chance to celebrate Christmas and the New Year. There was plenty of time for shopping, parties, and fun. The New Year also marked a change in semester. Second semester began and many hours were spent on studying.

The weather is only one of the many changes that occurs in winter.

1. Wrestlers take time to warm-up before a match. • 2. Suzie Gaw shows her potential at fielding. • 3. Madeline Schneck participates in the spirit by serving as SHS's very own Santa Claus. • 4. A room decoration contest was one of the many events that took place before the Christmas Holidays. • 5. The basketball team demonstrates that all the practice was well worth it. • 6. Light catches the ornaments and gives the tree a magical appearance.

Service as their purpose prevails

1. Mat Aids Lori Brown, Kay Kasper, Darlene Gottlieb and Anita Brower keep score for their wrestlers. • 2. Becky Clift questions Robin Bauer about the location of their guest. • 4. Mat Aids Heidi Woodbury and Jenie Kemp wait anxiously to change the score.

Mat Aids could be considered SHS wrestlers' cheerleaders. Keeping time, posting scores, coming to the practices, and cheering on the wrestlers at the meets are their main activities. Not only do they raise spirit but they also raise money. Car washes, rummage sales and candy drives are a few of the money raising events held. The money was used to put on the wrestling banquet.

The official hostesses for the city of Scottsdale were the Dudettes. Made up of twenty girls from Scottsdale and Saguaro High schools', they participated in various civic functions, as well as assisting the Chamber of Commerce. As the official hostesses for the Fiesta Bowl, golf tournaments and conventions they escorted many professionals and collegiates.

1. Elizabeth Thalasinis speaks out at a TARS meeting to stress a point. • 2. Sherrie Coyle is filming a recent tennis game to show the players at practice how they played. • 3. ICC rep. Mark Miller is posting a notice for the new club, TARS (Teen Age Republicans). • 4. Senior Mike Leimkuehler is paying for the ski trip that alot of students participated. • 5. Mike Coleman shows how to ski in front of some watching fans.

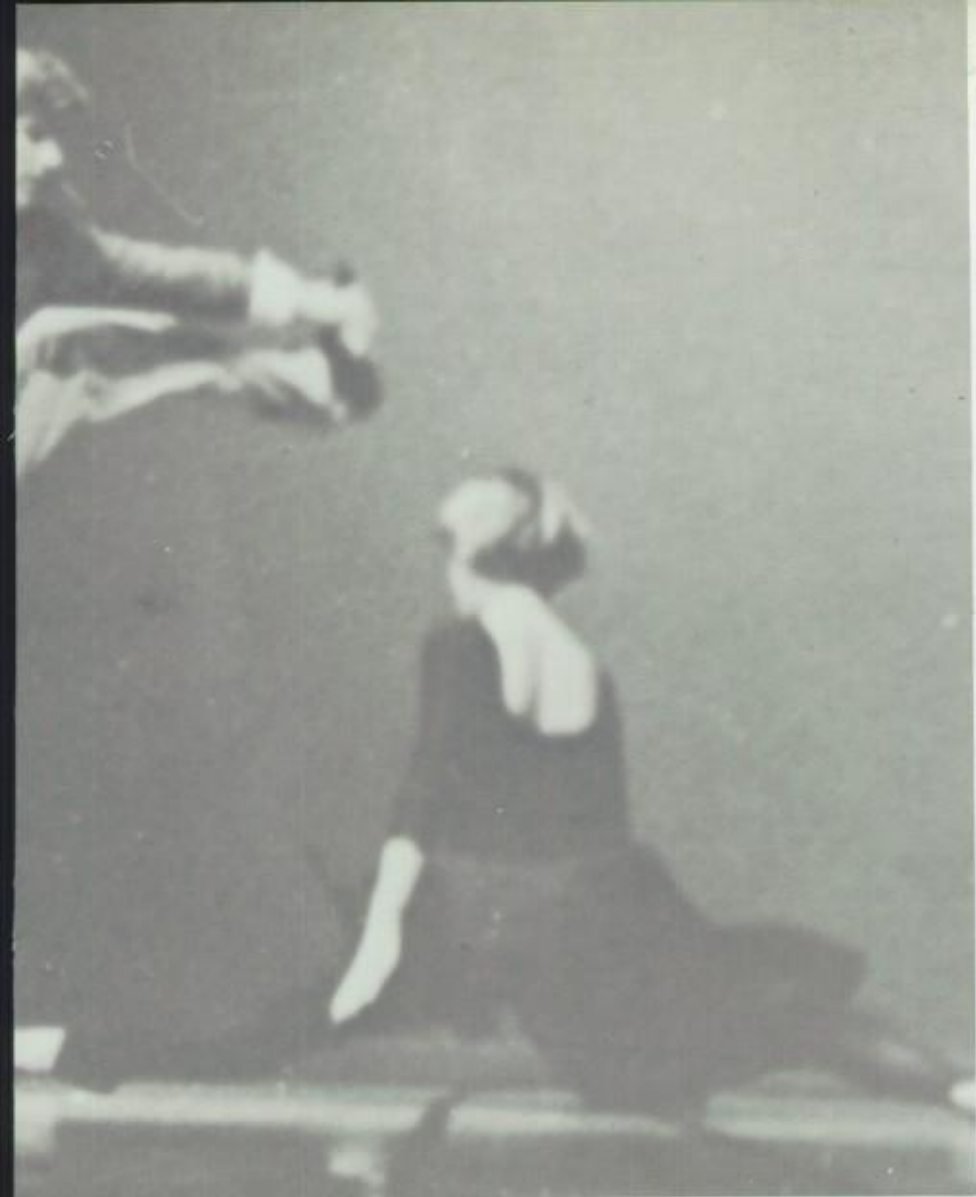

Beavers Athletic Association, Ski Club, and TARS are just some of the clubs on campus. BAA's goal for the year was to promote sportsmanship and help raise money for athletic teams on campus. Officers were Lisa Clinchey and Laura Spears. The club purchased a vidio tape machine by selling candied apples and car washes. Ski Club also had a great year as they took trips to Sunrise and were planning other trips. Teenage Republicans is a state affiliated club is active on campus trying to inform about candidates and issues. The club had breakfast with House Minority Leader John Rodes and planned a trip to Pinetop to dine with former President Gerald Ford.

Clubs unite school spirit

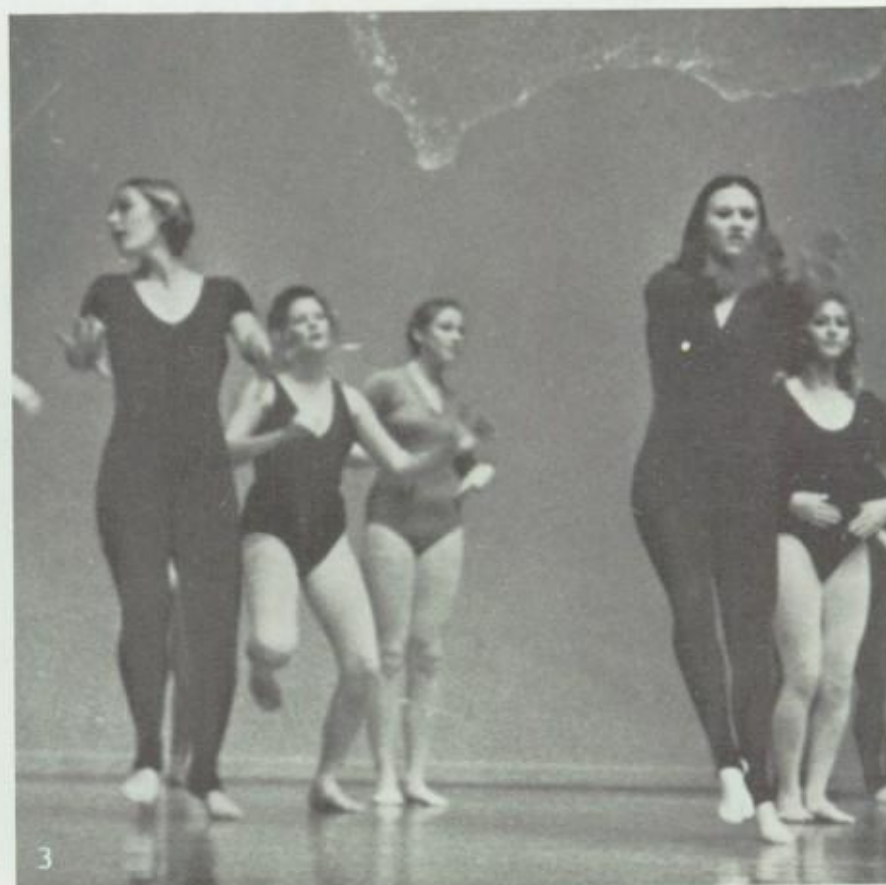

Chansonettes do "Annie"

Chansonettes, the SHS Varsity Girls Chorus, had 23 participants active throughout the year. Prep Chorus, the beginning mixed chorus, had 27 members. Under the direction of Floyd Woodard, Chansonettes and Prep Chorus developed their skills for future use in singing performances. Chansonettes were in the "Best of Broadway" concert singing selections from the recent Broadway show, "Annie."

Orchesis made their first appearance at the Lecture Demonstration on Dance held in late fall. Orchesis planned to have a Spring Dance Concert in which all dances are student oriented. Orchesis was also making plans to go to California in the spring to see the musical, "A Chorus Line."

1. Del Davis, Student Council Advisor and Mary Welty listen to views and opinions during a meeting. • 2. In the midst of heated discussions, composed members such as Jim Schaller prevail. • 3. Student Body President Leslie Roth directs the council through one of its daily meetings. • 4. Martha Swartout attempts to keep minutes in between spoonfuls of yogurt. • 5. Discussing upcoming activities are Mary McGinley and Tacy Bruns.

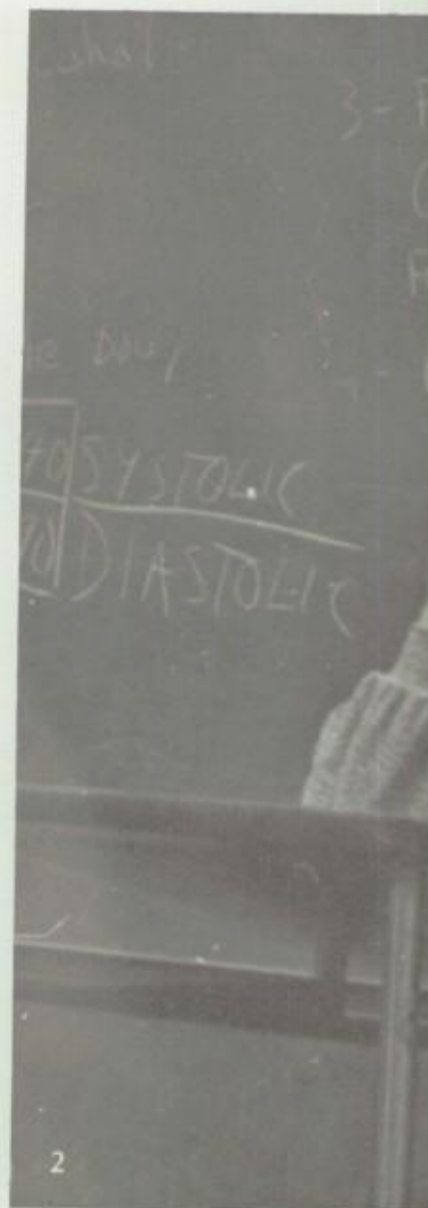

Student Council was effective in leading the student body to an activity-filled year. They started the freshmen off on the right foot by helping with the Un-cola party. Pep assemblies were organized by the Council. Backwards Week, Arcadia Week and Rodeo Week were also staged by them. The SHS Superstars Homecoming was also arranged with the help of Council. Once again, the Student Council brought the student body closer for a productive year.

Student Council leads SHS to an activity-filled year

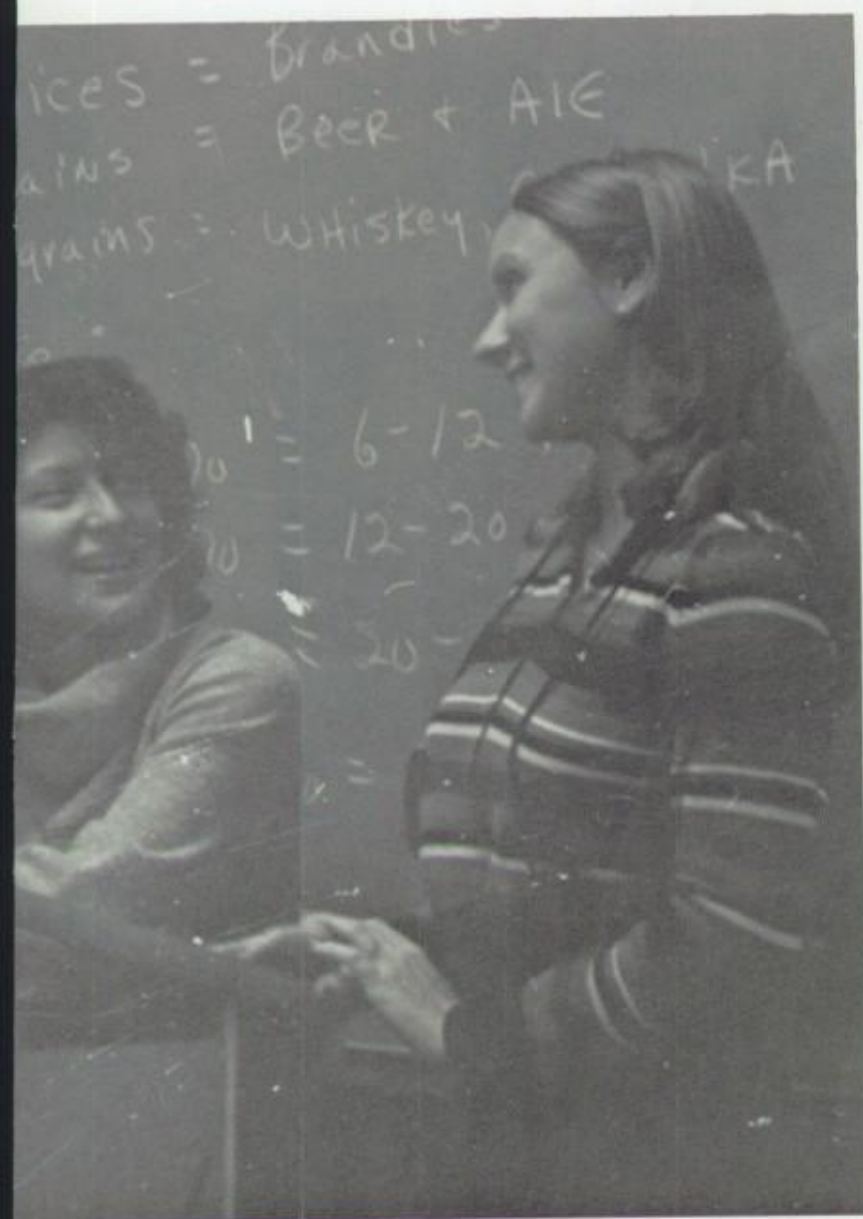

Senate urges participation in Student Government

Senate was composed of three senators from each class besides each class's vice president, treasurer and secretary. The Student Council Vice President, Jeannie Garcia, presided over Senate. Senate met twice a week, on Monday and Wednesday. Once a month, Senate met with Student Council to discuss important upcoming matters. Senate's powers included controlling all special elections and the "Jeannie Metcalf Memorial Fund" drive. Senate also helped with assemblies, sponsored Club Week and updated all plaques.

Fine Arts staffers, Anne Stewart and Mary Kate Jennings, request pictures from photographer Mandy Kruse. • 6. Sushi Khera, education editor, discusses ideas for her next article.

Volunteers produce newspaper

There almost wasn't a newspaper at SHS. Without a newspaper class to staff the paper the Beaver's prospects were not the most promising. Rising in a time of need, volunteers from the student body assured one more year for the SHS Beaver Newspaper. Under the guidance of Lee Ludwig, the advisor, as well as the Co-Editors, Greg Pajak and Tom Lang, the Beaver Staff wrote articles, designed layouts, and searched for advertisers to help pay printing costs. The long hours of labor finely bore fruit with the Christmas edition of the SHS Beaver coming out on schedule. After the holidays the wheels started turning again to put out additional papers for the second semester.

Yearbook staff compiles spirit and feeling

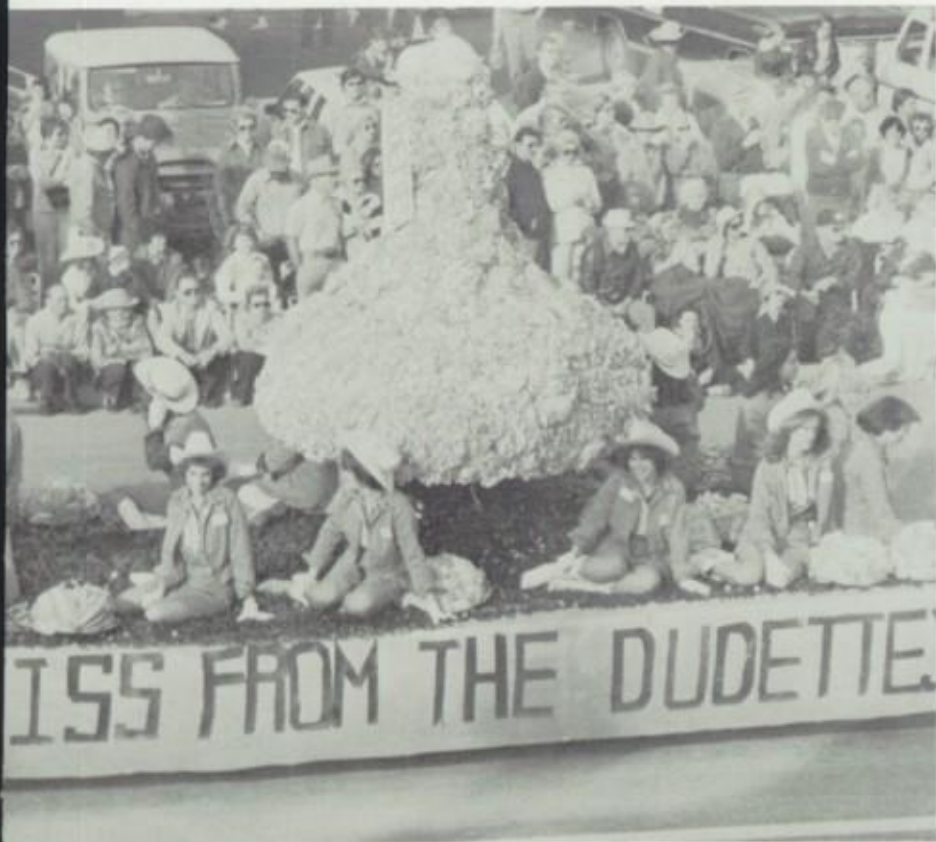

The SHS Camelback was produced by the yearbook class, sponsored by Lee Ludwig. Cindy Smith, the editor, handed out assignments to the various staff while Tami Baker edited and proofread copy. Mike Coleman took care of layouts and format of copy as well as placement of pictures supplied by Anne Backman, head of photography. The book was done in sections, each group of pages having its own deadline sometime during the school year. Working against time, the staff strived to complete for spring distribution another edition of the Scottsdale Camelback.

Foot loose and fancy free in Spring

Spring is the time of year when life begins again in nature and revives itself at SHS.

The usual anticipation of the end of another school year is on everyone's mind. Spring fever is highly contagious and unexcused absences reach an all time high.

The weather is irresistible and perfect for Spring sports. Participants and spectators of baseball, track, tennis, swimming and golf appreciate the perfect temperatures.

Demands of school work and life in general are put aside because Spring is a chance to break away and be foot loose and fancy free.

1. The Howdy Dudettes put a lot of hard work into creating a float for the Parada Del Sol. • 2. Spring fever hits the most unexpected. • 3. Leigh Fox, Bronwyn Reynolds and Carol Huebner are the Junior Class's very own western basketball team. • 4. Carol Raisanen and Martha Alton escape from class to enjoy the weather. • 5. During the rootbeer drinking contest Gary Cooper gives it his best shot.

The West's most western town

During halftime of the basketball game against Marcos De Niza the Courts ceremony commenced. Beginning with a parade of class competition in western costumes brought the juniors first place, the freshmen second and the seniors third. Pom then performed to the music of Loggins and Messina. The nominees were introduced: Kevin Lewis and Leslie Roth, Gary Saunders and Jeanne Garcia, and Mike Stanley and Allison Rowe. Brief summaries were read to display the many accomplishments of the candidates. Then the drum rolled as the anticipation of everyone grew until the new royalty was announced. Gary Saunders and Allison Rowe were crowned King and Queen of Courts for 1977-78.

1. Paul Rowe and Mike Stanley look on Allison Rowe with pride. • 2. Katrina Gonnerman, Calee Palmer and Julie Patrick are the Courts Attendants for 1977-78. • 3. Nicky Ori and Danny Ahler are the senior class competition for the courts ceremony.

Beaver Builders

sponsor needy families

Beaver Builders, one of the oldest clubs on campus was kept going under the leadership of President Tami Baker. Beaver Builders sold many items including cotton candy, astro pops and balloons. They also held a bake sale at SHS's flea market. With the money earned they sponsored a family booth at Thanksgiving and Christmas by providing food and clothing. They also took first place in the room decorating contest. Beaver Builders were also responsible for decorating the field and stands for home football games. Serving as guides at open house and cleaning trophy cases were some of the services provided for SHS. Beaver Builders held two teas to give interested students a chance to become Beaver Builders.

1. Beaver Builders, Cindy Moy, Wendy Welt and Toni Whitney discuss the upcoming cotton candy sale. • 2. Key Club demonstrates it's ability to "scoop the poop". • 3. Key Club President Kevin Lewis is in charge of the collection barrel. • 4. As a part of initiation, Beaver Builders Pam Lambert, Janet Risk, Margaret Lopez and Patti Kelly tries to sell raisins at Sky Harbor airport under the supervision of Robin Giltner.

Key Club

produces calendar

Key Club's goal was to come out "tops" at the Southwest district convention which was held in Santa Fe, New Mexico. Under the leadership of President Kevin Lewis, Key club had a very active year. Some of Key Club's many accomplishments include the production of the Key Club calendar and the selling of football programs at every home football game. They also donated money for Homecoming. For a school service project they repainted the trash cans around campus and were the ushers for the graduating seniors. Their other service projects consisted of "Halloween Night" held for all the kids of the city of Scottsdale and a can food drive for Thanksgiving. They also distributed magazines to all the nursing homes in Scottsdale. In addition they again were "pooper scoopers" during the Parada del Sol.

Adding spice to their meetings speakers on careers were added to the agendas. Some speakers included a lie detector technician, a sports caster, a doctor and a travel agent.

Peggy Etling and John Hassapic are the remaining members of the Bell Choir.

Jazz, Bells and Orchestra's performances are uniqueley different, yet the way in which they achieve is quite similar.

Each is made up of a group of talented people working and performing together as one. Much time is given up before school, after school and even on weekends for the many hours spent practicing.

They all strive for perfection, practicing and making changes until it is reached. When it is time to perform Jazz, Orchestra, and Bells share another thing in common and that is the enjoyment they give their audiences when they perform.

Outstanding girls nominated for Miss Camelback

The three outstanding senior girls nominated for Miss Camelback were selected by a committee consisting of teachers, students and administrators. The deciding factor was the student body who had purchased a yearbook. They had a choice of voting for Tami Baker, Cindy Etling or Jeannie Garcia.

Each candidate was presented by their fathers at the beginning of the Miss Camelback ceremony. A speech was given for each of the girls by one of their friends while they were presented with a bouquet of pink roses. Then the Camelback advisor, Lee Ludwig announced Jeannie Garcia as the 1977-78 Miss Camelback. Afterwards a special luncheon was held in honor of the Miss Camelback Royalty.

The 1977-78 Miss Camelback, Jeannie Garcia reigns with a smile.

Miss Camelback

Encompassing the highest honor possible at SHS was Miss Camelback. A tradition for 29 years, it was awarded to the most deserving girl. Nominees were chosen by a committee consisting of teachers, administrators, yearbook staff and students. Each girl exhibited outstanding qualities of leadership, sportmanship, loyalty, devotion and personality. All yearbook purchasers were then eligible to cast their vote for Miss Camelback. Friends and relatives were invited to attend a planned ceremony where a brief summary was presented about each girl with her favorite music accompanying the speaker. The auditorium sparkled with decorations for the special event. Climaxing the ceremony was the crowning of Miss Camelback and her two attendants.

Homecoming King and Queen

Beginning back in 1951, Homecoming festivities became a tradition at SHS. The theme, picked each year to center activities around was "SHS Superstars" for 1977-78. Week-long lunchtime events included tricycle races, a banana eating contest and a rootbeer drinking contest. A new twist was added to the voting procedures. Seniors were asked to narrow down 12 semifinalists to six finalists. Then everyone was eligible to vote for their choice of Homecoming King and Queen. A special assembly was held at the end of the week where each female candidate was escorted by one of the male nominees. Friday night spirits ran high at the football game, anticipating halftime. Finally the time had come. The new royalty was crowned amidst floats, balloons and tears. A special dance was held the following night to honor the Homecoming King and Queen of 1977-78.

King and Queen of Courts

The Courts Ceremony got underway in 1959 with the crowning of the first Queen. A King was added to the throne in 1969. Courts, being basketball's Homecoming counterpart shared the theme of the city of Scottsdale for their celebrations. "The West's Most Western Town" costume competition brought participation from all of the four classes, with the Sophomores, taking first place. Seniors were asked to nominate their choices for King and Queen of Courts. Then the whole student body voted. During halftime the pom line performed a special dance for an anxious crowd filled with friends and relatives of the nominees. At last the new King and Queen were announced. A dance was held afterwards to honor the most deserving couple.

As editors of the yearbook we hope you enjoy it. Being the editors is often a fun but difficult job. This year we were fortunate to have an advisor who helped us every step of the way. Mrs. Ludwig didn't make the decisions for us, she helped us make the right ones.

During the course of making the book you become very close as a class. You make many good and cherished memories.

We would like to especially thank Teresa and Doug who blew-up every picture in the book.

We hope you enjoy the book as much as we enjoyed making it.

eric,
 It's been great to be
 with you ^{lots} hour.
 Mr Stevens class would certainly have been boring
 without you there to debate.
 I have a high summer, see you next year! Take it easy,
 Lisanne

Hey Eric,
 Hop on porting
 but stop cool & keep on earth for a while.
 Your rocket ship will take off later in life & answers will come with out being a "space head".
 Sound advice porty-master.
 Your friends
 Mike
 Zekchowski

Eric,
 Let me see, it all began in 6th grade.
 And now look at us,
 we're practically seniors.
 Thanks for ~~being~~ not ing both my car. Hitt carter extremely interesting. When you come up with some of those questions I'll never know
 But I always seem to agree with your answers!
 Take care, and have a great summer.

Love,
 Pam (Kruken)
